Study aims to help LGBTQ students

Paul Olsen and Catherine Taylor
ALYSSA MCDONALD/FOR METRO

Teachers from across Canada are being asked to participate in a national study on improving classroom understanding of LGBTQ students.

University of Winnipeg professor Dr. Catherine Taylor is heading the study, called the Every Teacher Project, which will look at how teachers are creating (or hindering) LGBTQ-inclusive classrooms.

"Children and youth all over the country are needlessly suffering a homophobic and transphobic climate (in schools). It doesn't have to be that way," said Taylor.

The first study she conducted of LGBTQ students in 2011 found that 21 per cent have been physically harassed or assaulted and 64 per cent felt unsafe at school. "Safety and self-acceptance are the best things that could come out of this," said TL McMinn, 26, who identifies as a member of the LGBTQ communities, adding there was nothing like this for her growing up.

All national and provincial teacher organizations in English Canada has signed on to support the project, including the study's partner the Manitoba Teachers' Society.

"We need the best information (so) we can ... create environments in schools that are welcoming and safe for all students," said Manitoba Teachers' Society president Paul Olsen.

2nd arrest. Police say little about what led to shooting

Winnipeg police have arrested a second man in connection to a shooting on Maryland Street last month that left one man dead and another injured.

Jordan Dennis Houle, 24, and a 19-year-old man were both found suffering from gunshot wounds near the 600 block of Maryland Street shortly after midnight on Sept. 29.

Houle was taken to hospital in critical condition and later died. The second victim is listed in stable condition.

Michael Frank Okemow, 24, of Winnipeg, was arrested and charged with second-degree murder and attempted murder last week, and on Wednesday police also arrested Edward Arthur Coutu, 27, of Winnipeg, who is also facing charges of second-degree murder and attempted murder.

Police spokesperson Const. Jason Michalyshen released few other details Thursday, and couldn't say whether the suspects knew the victims or what motivated the shooting.

"I can't paint an exact picture as to the details of the incident at this time," he said.

Police find no trace of missing woman in landfill

Slim chances. Family vows not to give up

After a week of combing through garbage and potential hazards in a landfill, Winnipeg police say they were unable to find any sign of Tanya Nepinak, one of three aboriginal women believed to have been killed by a drifter.

"No evidence pertinent to the investigation was located," Const. Jason Michalyshen said Thursday.

"We were open and up front right from the get-go that the chances were incredibly slim. But despite that, when we receive this type of information, we need to be open-minded, we want to be open-minded and I think we were open-minded."

Nepinak's family, however, accused police of focusing on too small of an area at the 470-hectare dump.

"They know she's over there. Why leave her there?" Nepinak's sister, Gail Nepinak, said.

"We're not giving up. We're going to fight for where we wanted to get a search done in the first place."

Tanya Nepinak disappeared in September of last year at the age of 31. Police believe she had been killed and put in a dumpster, which was emptied by a garbage truck and ended up in the Brady Landfill south of the city.

The decision to search the landfill followed the arrest in June of Shawn Lamb, a 52-year-old drifter accused of second-degree murder in the deaths of Nepinak and two other aboriginal women — Carolyn Sinclair, 25, and Lorna Blacksmith, 18 — whose bodies were found wrapped in plastic near garbage bins over the past year.

Lamb's arrest prompted

Garbage day. City sifting through pickup problems

The private company charged with collecting recycling and garbage in Winnipeg has until the end of the weekend to get on schedule or the city says it will do it for them.

The city's manager of solid waste told media Thursday Emterra Group — the company contracted to pick up the new rolling recycling and garbage bins — will have to pay for the city to take out the trash if problems aren't cleaned up by Sunday at 6 p.m.

"It could be providing other contractors to do the work," explained Darryl Drohomerski. "Our goal is get the material off the street ... we'll do whatever we need to do to make that happen."

Drohomerski said on average garbage and recycling pickup is between half-a-day and a full day behind schedule, although some Winnipeggers are complaining their trash hasn't been picked up once since the new service started Oct. 1.

Drohomerski pointed to a number of issues, including bad weather and growing pains as workers learn their routes, as to why the service is backed up.

He also said homeowners could help by making sure their garbage and recycling bins are about an arm's length apart from each other and away from garages on pickup day.

The challenge for police was to decide what area of the sprawling landfill to search. There was no information to indicate where in the landfill the garbage truck emptied its load.

Original Jets goal scorer marks 40th anniversary

Family pride. McDonald won four Stanley Cups, returned to St. James

ALYSSA
MCDONALD
winnipeg@metronews.ca

Forty years ago Friday, the Winnipeg Jets officially arrived, playing their first World Hockey Association game and scoring their first goal ever.

"I didn't really think the goal was extra special; I had scored lots of goals before that," former Jets' captain Ab McDonald, 76, said. "But it was the first goal.... Somebody has to score the first goal and it just happened to be me."

For McDonald, the goal wasn't even the best part of his night. It was welcoming his fifth child, Kristina.

"She'll always know her birthday — Oct. 12 — when the Jets started," McDonald said.

Throughout his career, Mc-

Donald has always remained loyal to Winnipeg: He started his junior career with the St. Boniface Canadiens, kept a home in Winnipeg throughout his 16 years playing in the NHL — during which time he won four Stanley Cups — and then retired from hockey while playing for the WHA's Winnipeg Jets.

"I was pleased to come back here and play in Winnipeg... to get a team and finish up here," he said.

His home in St. James, where he has lived for 45 years, was often the place where the Jets would party after the games.

Some Winnipeg Jets alumni celebrated the 40th anniversary of the inaugural year on Thursday at the Winnipeg Free Press Café.

"That's what good teams do. They stay together, they party together and play together," McDonald said.

But I've heard that before, and many other stories during my childhood, from my grandpa, Ab McDonald.

Former Jets' captain Ab McDonald scored the first goal for the WHA version of Winnipeg's beloved team, which is celebrating its 40th anniversary on Oct. 12. ALYSSA MCDONALD/FOR METRO

Last Chance. Reel Pride film looks at persecution

Refugees facing persecution in their home countries because of their sexual orientation will be highlighted this Saturday at The Reel Pride Film Festival.

The film Last Chance tells the story of five people who escape their own countries due to discrimination and violence.

After the film, a panel discussion will take place including three organizations who help asylum seekers as well as Hamad, a recent refugee who has found a home in Winnipeg.

"Now that I am in Canada I rarely think about being gay. It is not like before. I am not scared anymore," said Hamad, who asked his last name not be used for safety reasons.

According to a 2011 United Nations report, diversity in sexual orientation is illegal in 76 countries and in at least five countries the sentence is the death penalty, including Hamad's native country of Iran.

The film is at 3 p.m. on Saturday at the Gas Station Arts Centre, followed by the panel discussion at 4:30 p.m. Entry is by donation.

Winnipeg skatepark among top spots for fun in Canada

Winnipeg skateboarder Josh Thorvaldson knows exactly where his favourite place in the city is to have fun, and this weekend he'll be on TV to let the rest of Canada know too.

Thorvaldson, 15, took the host of CBC's Cross Country Fun Hunt to his favourite local haunt — The Plaza Skatepark at The Forks — this summer, and the episode will air this weekend.

"I'm pretty much there every day skateboarding," explained Thorvaldson, who along with his friend Brayden

Slezak, 16, were selected to appear on the show after submitting a video outlining why they think the park should be named the most fun spot in Canada. "I couldn't think of anywhere better."

Clare MacKay, vice-president of marketing and communications with The Forks North Portage Partnership isn't surprised to hear the park make the fun list.

"We're thrilled ... the skatepark is one of our own projects and something that we're very proud of," she said. "Since it opened in 2006, we've seen a great array of really good skateboarders come through — everyone from Bam Margera to Tony Hawk.

"All those accolades are great, but it means just as much when someone from your hometown puts it on the map and says it's one of their favourite places in their city."

Cross Country Fun Hunt airs Saturday at 9:30 a.m. on CBC, and kids can still nominate their favourite spots for fun at cbc.ca/kids/games/funhunt.

Girls unharmed

Suspicious man sought

Winnipeg police are looking for a suspect after a suspicious man in a vehicle tried to pick up two 11-year-old girls in the Spence neighbourhood on Wednesday.

The two girls were walking in the 600 block of Ellice Avenue around 2:45 p.m. when a man in a dark navy-blue minivan pulled up and asked if they needed a ride. He then asked if they could help him find his lost puppy. The suspect eventually drove off and the girls were unharmed.

The suspect is Asian, 40 to 50 years of age, and is described as having "droopy" facial features. He was wearing sunglasses and a short-sleeve shirt at the time.

Anyone with information should call police at 204-986-6245 or Crime Stoppers at 204-786-TIPS.

Police said the 86-year-old driver of a Chevrolet Malibu was backing out of a parking stall when the car suddenly accelerated in reverse. The car continued for about half a block out of the parking-lot entrance, and hit the girl as she walked along the sidewalk, before crashing into a tree on the south boulevard of Machray Avenue.

The girl was taken to hospital in critical condition but has been upgraded to stable.

No sex change required to alter gender on birth certificates in Ontario

Ontario has become the first jurisdiction in Canada to allow transgender people to change the gender on their birth certificates without sex-change surgery.

"It's a huge decision. It's a remarkably positive decision. This is an important victory," Susan Gapka, chair of the Trans Lobby Group, told the Torstar News Service on Thursday.

The new rules, published this week, mean a transgender person can apply to ServiceOntario for a new birth certificate with only a letter from a physician or psychologist.

Previously, the Vital Statistics Act required proof of "transsexual surgery."

Ontario was acting on a ruling in April from the Ontario Human Rights Commission.

The commission acted on a complaint brought by a transgender woman known as XY who argued she was exposed to discrimination and violence because the gender she lived with didn't match her documents.

The old rule "perpetuates stereotypes about transgender persons and their need to have surgery in order to live with their gender identity," Sheri Price wrote in a 95-page decision for the commission.

In back-and-forth negotiations leading to the change, the human-rights commission and Trans Lobby Group persuaded the ministry not to limit the corroboration to just a physician.

Government argument

The government had argued to the commission that other documents, such as a driver's licence, could already be changed by transgender people and were better identity documents.

- Birth records are also important for statistical data, medical research and in decisions about federal-provincial transfer payments.

- The transgender woman's lawyer argued birth certificates are the basis for many other important documents, such as passports.

"Not everyone has access to a physician. A lot of places in rural Ontario don't," said Gapka, explaining their rationale.

Plane was carrying ammunition to Syria: Turkey's PM

Tough stand. Engineer on board Syrian plane said armed Turkish officials handcuffed the crew before inspecting packages

A plane intercepted by Turkish fighter jets on its way from Moscow to Damascus was carrying equipment and ammunition destined for the Syrian Defence Ministry, Turkey's prime minister said Thursday.

Recep Tayyip Erdogan's comments follow a fierce denial by Syria that anything illegal had been aboard the Airbus A320 that was forced by Turkey to land in Ankara late Wednesday. Syria, whose relations with neighbouring Turkey have plummeted over the Syrian war, branded it an act of piracy.

Earlier in the day, Turkish officials had rejected claims by Syria's ally, Russia, that Turkey had endangered the lives of Russian citizens on board the aircraft.

Yeni Safak, a newspaper close to the Turkish government, reported Thursday there were 10 containers aboard the plane, whose contents included radio receivers, antennas and equipment "thought to be missile parts."

Turkish state-run television TRT also reported the plane was carrying military communications equipment. Neither TRT nor the newspaper cited sources for their claims. The plane was allowed to continue to Damascus after several hours, without the cargo.

Erdogan refused to say how — or from whom — Turkey had learned that the twice-weekly scheduled flight would be used to transport military gear to Syria.

Turkey has called for Syrian President Bashar Assad to step down and Damascus accusing Turkey of supporting the rebels. The two neighbours have traded artillery fire over Syria's northern border throughout the past week.

Hours before the Turkish statement, Russian Ambassador Vladimir Ivanovsky had held talks with Turkish officials at the Foreign Ministry.

Russian Foreign Ministry spokesman Alexander Lukashevich had said earlier Thursday that Moscow was concerned that lives and safety of the 35 passengers, including 17 Russian citizens, had been endangered.

He said Turkey without explanation denied Russian consular officials and a doctor access to the passengers, who had not been allowed into the airport for eight hours or provided with food.

Terror cell. Islamists planned to send jihadists to Syria, prosecutor says

A network of French Islamists behind a grenade attack on a kosher market also planned to join jihadists fighting in Syria, a state prosecutor said Thursday, calling the suspected terrorist group potentially the most dangerous established in France since the 1990s.

Five of the 12 people arrested in sweeps in cities around France have been freed, said the prosecutor, Francois Molins. He said seven people remain in custody a day after police discovered bomb-making materials in an underground parking lot as part of a probe of an "extremely dangerous terrorist cell." The seven, aged 19 to 25 years old, were all born in France, he said.

The Sept. 19 attack on the market in Sarcelles, outside Paris, shattered windows and injured a customer at the store. It has revived French concerns that home-grown Islamic militants want to link with international jihad and carry out terrorism in France — this time, notably, against Jewish targets.

"The intent was to kill," Molins said.

Toews says naval spy scandal hasn't hurt Canada's reputation

Working with allies.

The ease with which Delisle passed secrets to the Russians has prompted a review of security measures

The federal public safety minister says Canada remains tight with its intelligence allies despite a naval spy scandal that is said to have done "irreparable damage" to the country's interests.

Vic Toews said Thursday he doesn't believe Canada's reputation with its closest collaborators has been hurt at all by navy Sub-Lt. Jeffery Paul Delisle's actions. Toews noted he continues to work closely with Janet Napolitano, the U.S. Homeland Security secretary, and Eric Holder, the U.S. attorney general.

"They have never expressed anything other than a commitment to working with us in the future," Toews said

Delisle, a 41-year-old intelligence officer with the Royal Canadian Navy, pleaded guilty Wednesday to passing military secrets to Russia. He transferred sensitive information onto a thumb drive from a secure location before passing it to a Russian operative.

How that could happen so easily at a highly protected facility has prompted a review of security measures that were in place at the time, Toews said.

Judges speak out on Pussy Riot decision

Member released.

Panel tries to deflect international criticism by defending prison time for two others

Judge Larisa Polyakova speaks with the media in Moscow Thursday. SERGEY PONOMAREV/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Russian judges who ruled to keep two of the three Pussy Riot band members behind bars took the unusual step of publicly defending their decision, saying Thursday that it was made independently and without pressure.

A panel of three judges at the Moscow City Court on Wednesday upheld a lower court ruling to send Nadezhda Tolokonnikova and Maria Alekhina to prison for two years, but they released Yekaterina Samutsevich after giving her a suspended sentence.

Pussy Riot staged an impromptu performance at Moscow's main cathedral in February in protest against President Vladimir Putin and the Russian Orthodox Church hierarchy for openly supporting his rule. The three women were convicted of hooliganism motivated by religious hatred, but they insist that their protest was political in nature and not an attack on religion.

The case has caused controversy in Russia and been widely condemned in the West, which may have prompted the judges to speak out.

The presiding judge said the appeals court deemed it necessary for Tolokonnikova and Alekhina to remain incarcerated.

"The court has considered all the circumstances of the case and the level of danger to society and ruled that their correction is possible only in isolation from society," judge Larisa Polyakova said.

Qur'an-burning pastor denied entry into Canada

Turned back at the border. Anti-Muslim American was slated to debate at a free-speech rally

An anti-Muslim American pastor who earned an international reputation after burning copies of the Islamic holy text has been denied entry into Canada hours before he was to speak at a free-speech rally in Toronto, organizers said Thursday.

Allan Einstoss said Terry Jones was turned back at the Michigan-Ontario border after being held there for several hours.

Einstoss decried the decision to keep Jones from attending a multi-faith debate on freedom of speech, which was slated to take place in front of the Ontario legislature on Thursday evening.

He poured scorn on the official reason for the denial, saying it defied logic.

"In terms of checking for criminal records, I would make the assumption that's what they do on a daily basis," Einstoss said in a telephone interview.

Jones issued a statement Thursday night expressing "shock" at being refused entry. "We consider this to be a grievous blow to freedom of speech. We hope that this is a lesson for the Canadians and the Americans for us to stand up, unite together, and protect our freedom of speech," the statement said.

According to Jones's statement, the rental car he was travelling in was thoroughly searched and protest placards were confiscated.

The statement said Jones and a travelling companion were refused entry based on an arrest in Michigan last year for refusing to pay a peace bond as well as a fine by the German government for using the title "doctor" based on an honorary doctorate he received from a California university in 1993. Jones said he appealed both disputes and won but the statement indicated that border officials told him they needed more documentation in order to allow him to enter.

The Canada Border Services Agency declined to discuss Jones's case, saying it was against their policy to share details of any individual's efforts to enter the country.

"Admissibility of all travellers seeking to enter Canada is considered on a case-by-case basis based on the specific facts presented by the applicant at the time of entry," the agency said in a statement.

Event to go on without Jones

Terry Jones was scheduled to be the primary attraction at a multi-faith debate on the film Innocence of Muslims, whose negative portrayal of the Islamic prophet Muhammad has incited violent riots around the world. One skirmish claimed the life of the U.S. ambassador to Libya, along with three members of his staff.

Jones was slated to square off against Toronto imam Steve Rockwell, U.S.-based Muslim author Masud Ansari, and Sikh community leader Bikram Lamba. The event was also to feature a memorial to Cpl. Christopher Speer, a U.S. medic killed in Afghanistan by Canadian war criminal Omar Khadr.

Einstoss said the event was to go ahead as planned, but lamented Jones' absence from the proceedings. Interference from border officials, he said, has quashed an opportunity for a meaningful dialogue on free speech. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bieber fans deface memorial

Some Justin Bieber fans defaced the memorial wall at Vancouver's Rogers Arena Wednesday night where Canucks fans have been paying tribute to Rick Rypien since his suicide just over a year ago.

One Rypien fan was up early the next morning to try to scrub the messages off with nail polish remover, but the messages to "J.B." were stubborn and by mid-morning the bottle was abandoned there, nearly full.

Fans of the late hockey forward, who suffered from clinical depression, took to Twitter to denounce the acts of vandalism.

"Oh man I don't like to call people stupid but how do you write about a Justin Bieber concert on Rick Rypien's memorial? Insanity," wrote Wyatt Arndt.

One Bieber fan apparently signed her name on the wall, and after a photo of the signature circulated online someone sent the girl a tweet telling her to jump off a bridge.

Another Twitter user, Alexandra Ransford, was hit by a backlash for calling the Bieber fan who signed the wall a b*.

"So after being depressed for 5 years I'm being bullied for being upset about a suicide victims memorial being written on. How pleasant :)" Ransford wrote.

Alexandra, 18, was too upset Thursday to do an interview, but her mother, Ellen Ransford, said she had been crying all morning about the defacement and being accused of "fuelling the fire" by Twitter users who assumed the vandals to be underage.

Prison baby. Outcry follows jail-cell birth

The Elizabeth Fry Society is calling for a public inquiry into health-care services provided to inmates after a woman gave birth in an Ottawa jail cell without the help of a doctor.

The group's director, Bryonie Baxter, says a systemic review of the prison system is needed to begin changing a culture that sees inmates treated as less than human.

Julie Bilotta, a 26-year-old woman from Cornwall, Ont., gave birth to a boy Sept. 29 on the floor of a cell at the Ottawa-Carleton Detention Centre.

Baxter says Bilotta's screams for help while she was going into labour were

Toddler served whisky

Skinamarinky drinky, drinky

A restaurant chain has apologized for accidentally serving alcohol to a toddler in Wales, calling it a case of human error.

The BBC reported that two-year-old Sonny Rees was taken to a hospital emergency room after drinking whisky at his second birthday party at a Frankie and Benny's restaurant in Swansea.

His mother said he was clearly intoxicated. She said she tasted his drink after noticing that he was making a funny face. At the hospital, the staff monitored his vital signs and later gave him the all-clear. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sandusky's wife claimed their son was off his meds

Former Penn State University assistant football coach Jerry Sandusky is driven from the Centre County Courthouse after being sentenced in Bellefonte, Pa., Tuesday. Sandusky was ordered to serve at least 30 years in prison, effectively a life sentence, in the child sexual abuse scandal that brought shame to Penn State and led to coach Joe Paterno's downfall. MATT ROURKE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Convicted pedophile.

Former football coach's son was expected to testify for the defence until he told investigators he was molested by his father

Jerry and Dottie Sandusky wrote defiant letters to his judge before sentencing, attacking the motives of his victims, expressing a loss of faith in the judicial system and insisting he isn't a child molester.

Son's lawyer

"Matt is extremely disappointed that they have decided to attack him in what amounts to an effort to divert attention away from Jerry's heinous crimes."

Matt Sandusky's civil lawyer Joel Feller, who also represents at least five other victims or potential claimants.

The letters were released Thursday by Judge John Cleland, two days after he sentenced the former Penn State assistant coach to at least 30 years in prison for 45 counts of child sexual abuse.

Dottie Sandusky wrote July 9 that she never saw her husband do anything inappropriate to any child, a statement that echoed her trial testimony.

She was deeply critical of her son, Matt, who had been expected to be a defence witness until the trial, when he claimed to investigators he also had been abused by Jerry Sandusky.

Matt Sandusky has been diagnosed with bipolar disorder, "but he refuses to take his medication," she wrote. "He has had many run-ins with the law and stolen money and items from our family."

Matt Sandusky's civil lawyer Joel Feller, who also represents at least five other victims, said the letters were part of a failed strategy to blame others for Jerry Sandusky's crimes.

Wendy's revamps 30-year-old logo

Trading up. Burger chain aims for more upscale look in face of intensifying competition

Wendy's pigtails are getting a tweak. For the first time since 1983, the Dublin, Ohio-based fast food company is updating its logo in a move intended to signal its ongoing transformation into a higher-end hamburger chain.

Instead of the boxy, old-fashioned lettering against a red-and-yellow backdrop, the pared down new look features the chain's name in a casual red font against a clean white backdrop. An image of the smiling, cartoon girl in red pigtails floats above — though this girl looks more vivid and not quite as childlike.

CEO Emil Brolick said the current logo had served the company well for the past three decades, but that it was time for an update. Still, Bro-ick said he was encouraged by consumer feedback in testing dozens of new logo variations over the past several months.

"When we pushed things too far, they very much reeled us back," he said, noting that it showed just how attached people are to the brand.

It's only the fifth logo update since founder Dave Thomas opened the first Wendy's in 1969, and perhaps the most significant. The makeover comes as the chain struggles to redefine itself in the face of intensifying competition from the likes of Panera Bread Co. and Chipotle Mexican Grill Inc., which are seen as a step up from traditional fast food.

Confused by your cell contract? The CRTC wants to hear from you

Canadians are being asked for help to develop a national retail code for wireless services like cellphones and tablets.

The CRTC said Thursday that it's asking for help because consumers have said their monthly contracts are confusing and the terms and conditions can vary greatly from one wireless company to another.

"Our goal is to make sure that Canadians have the tools they need to make informed choices in a competitive marketplace," CRTC chairman Jean-Pierre Blais said in a news release.

The federal telecom regulator said consumers are being asked for their opinions on the terms and conditions that should be addressed by such a code and how the rules should be enforced, for example.

The CRTC said a national code will help Canadians better understand their rights as consumers as well as set out the responsibilities of wireless companies.

Canadians can participate online or write to the CRTC to give their views. The CRTC will also hold a public hearing on the matter Jan. 28 in Gatineau, Que.

Telus, which asked for a national code last spring, said a consistent set of national standards would benefit consumers. "They ensure that all

World has 6 billion cell subscriptions, UN agency says

The world now has nearly as many cellphone subscriptions as inhabitants. The UN telecom agency says there were about six billion subscriptions by the end of 2011 — roughly one for 86 of every 100 people.

In a report Thursday, the International

Telecommunication Union said China alone accounted for one billion subscriptions, and India is expected to hit the one-billion mark this year.

The Geneva-based agency says 2.3 billion people — or about one in three of the world's seven billion inhabitants — were Internet users by the end of 2011, but there's a strong disparity between rich and developing countries.

WMM FISHERIES CO-OPERATIVE LTD.

Many Commercial fishermen in Manitoba want freedom of choice in marketing because they just can't make a living under Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation (FFMC). Under their monopoly, prices to fishermen have fallen by 31.6 %, a decrease of almost one third in value since 1999. In this same time:

Executive and Administration salaries and benefits in 1999 = $1,149,000.

Executive and Administration salaries and benefits in 2011 = $2,974,000.

- That's an increase of $1,825,000. or just $473,000 short of triple the earnings.

Many fishermen have been forced to take other jobs or go on welfare because of low prices from FFMC. As fishermen are forced to stop fishing volume decreases and so does the work for the unionized processing staff. With less volume, FFMC has less money and so must rely heavily on the 50 million dollar guaranteed line of credit they have with the Federal government. If the executive of FFMC continue their mismanagement, overall volume will decrease even more and put taxpayers money at risk.

Even though the market price has steadily increased for the fish they catch, FFMC management does not pass that on to fishermen, instead they increase their own salaries. Imagine for a moment that minimum wage, or your own wage, had not increased but in fact had decreased since 1999. Imagine trying to live on that with the same cost of living increases we have all seen in those 13 years. That is what life is like for Commercial Fishermen in Manitoba today. That is why the Fishermen need change right now.

We need change because we know that we can get much better prices if we are allowed to sell our own fish. Right now we could be getting double or better the price from buyers other than FFMC. Unionized processing staff would have more work and more job security in a free market. We need your help to make this happen so we can all make a decent living.

Please visit us on Facebook at – FREE THE FISHERMEN to help us find solutions and get this changed. Frank Kenyon, - Director, WMM Fisheries Co-operative Ltd., 204-659-5834

BIG BIRD AD LEAVES US TICKLED PINK

THE LIST
Neil Morton
metronews.ca

It's that time again; the time when The Metro List combines everything from the awesome to the zany to remind you that your world is getting weirder by the week.

1 Eighties re-enactment. Everyone knows that iconic scene from 1989's Say Anything with John Cusack (as Lloyd Dobler) holding up the boom box while playing In Your Eyes for Ione Skye (as Diane Court). Well, Cusack showed up on stage with a boom box for Peter Gabriel at the Hollywood Bowl on the weekend before he performed the song. Eighties movie re-enactments in real life = retro awesome.

2 The shocking split. They were one of those Hollywood couples that gave you hope for longevity in Hollywood couples. But on Monday, after 30 years of marriage, actors Danny DeVito and Rhea Perlman announced they were separating. Love is dead. In Hollywood, that is. Not in the real world.

3 Poor Elmo. Big Bird has become a huge star after Mitt Romney's remarks in the debate about loving him, but that he would still be cutting funding from PBS. Big Bird made an appearance on Saturday Night Live, and stars in Obama's new campaign ad in which Big Bird and Sesame Street are compared to Bernie Madoff and Wall Street. Poor Elmo is waiting for a Romney endorsement now.

4 Ben Affleck. The director/actor went on Twitter Monday to host an online chat about Argo, his new drama/thriller opening Friday Oct. 12. Affleck showed his funny side, tweeting if he wasn't directing, "I'd be writing Twitter feeds for celebrities." And if Argo "were mistaken for #FARGO, I wouldn't mind. Pretty great movie." But just don't mistake Argo for the Toronto Argos.

5 Jen's rock. Jennifer Aniston's ginormous engagement ring from fiancé Justin Theroux caught on camera was the talk of the Internet, with some people calling it over the top, pretentious and gaudy. Of course, there's always the remote possibility Aniston's pranking us with that huge rock. Or trying out for Real Housewives of Beverly Hills.

6 Sexiest woman alive. It must be an honour for Mila Kunis to receive this title from Esquire magazine in their November issue. And her beau Ashton Kutcher must be an equally happy camper. Runners-up for the title include Anne Hathaway, Katie Holmes and my wife, Christi. Now, the part about my wife isn't true, but I just got enough brownie points to last a week for suggesting it.

7 Tim Tebow. Monday night's NFL game between the Jets and Texans became one of good versus evil when Jets backup QB Tim Tebow (a devout Christian) tweeted out earlier in the day "Looking forward to giving God all the glory in tonight's 666th Monday Night Football game. Romans 8:37-39." Evil won out, barely, as the Texans beat Tebow 23-17.

8 Lena Dunham. The Girls creator's autobiographical Not That Kind of Girl: A Young Woman Tells You What She's Learned, is the talk of literary circles. A bidding war for the 26-year-old's book of essays ended with her signing a $3.5-million US deal with Random House. Publishers, if you're interested in Not That Kind of Guy: A Middle-Aged Man Tells You What He's Learned, give me your best offer.

9 Eric Winston. An eloquent post-game rant by the Kansas City Chief offensive lineman went viral on YouTube after he tore into hometown fans who cheered an injury to their own QB Matt Cassel, who had been performing poorly. Cassel suffered a concussion and Winston laid into the fans, calling the cheering "100 per cent sickening." Indeed, those fans were so far offside.

10 Jian Ghomeshi's 1982. This goofy, thoughtful memoir by the host of CBC Radio's Q gives the goods on life growing up as a Persian-Canadian boy in the early '80s in Thornhill, Ont. And it also covers the influence of new wave music (Bowie, The Clash, Talking Heads — yes!) on Ghomeshi. Full of pop culture, full of Canadiana, full of the '80s — like it on Facebook, love it in real life.

11 Twitter quake. The Montreal region was hit by a small quake Wednesday night, and people took to Twitter with some comic gems, like "Apparently the Hockey Gods are pissed that the puck won't be dropping at the Bell Centre on Thursday. #earthquake #montreal," tweeted one person. And "PVRs have spoiled me. I want to rewind real life by 10 minutes so I can feel that #earthquake again" said another.

Canadians get some hero cred in Argo. HANDOUT

2 SCENE

Reel Guys

CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Mission: Theatrical

Argo. The Reel Guys may have uncovered the underlying intent of this movie about a Hollywood-assisted CIA op in Iran

Richard: Mark, despite being based in truth, this spy story has the kind of Hollywood feel that reduces the agents to stereotypes — the world-weary spymaster, the by-the-book boss wielding the “Clipboard of Authority” — and the mission to a series of set pieces involving split-second timing and imminent danger. But this isn’t Tinker Tailor Soldier Spy, with that movie’s pensive take on the intelligence racket. It’s an Affleck-directed thriller that despite its overreliance on well-worn theatrics, works well.

Mark: I’m so glad it isn’t Tinker Tailor Boring Spy. That put me to sleep. This is a fast-paced, often-funny caper movie. Everyone plays their parts well, but it’s not an actor’s movie, it’s the story that matters. And what a story! It seems absurd but it’s too loopy NOT to be true. You might say the film buys into the American belief that Hollywood conquers all, even an international crisis, but it sends it up satirically too. And Canadians are partly the heroes of the film — sort of.

RC: The Canadian connection is played with a sort of understated aplomb, which I suppose suits our national character, but I would have loved to see Ken Taylor played as more of an action hero, like Captain Canuck with diplomatic immunity. I’ll also agree this isn’t an actor’s movie, but you have to love Alan Arkin as Hollywood mogul Lester Siegel.

Arkin is the most flamboyant actor on screen and injects needed energy into stateside scenes.

MB: So true about Arkin; he’s the only one who stands out. And he has the best line in the film: “If I’m going to make a fake movie, I want it to be a fake hit!” I actually spent time wondering if the fake movie might actually be watchable if it were made. The plot didn’t look any worse than John Carter. And here’s a nice paranoid thought: The Iranians in the movie looked dangerous, and the timing of the movie’s release, on the eve of a possible U.S. military intervention into Iran, seems convenient. A CIA co-production, Richard?

RC: Great, now the Reel Guys are going to end up on some kind of CIA watch list. Thanks for exposing the real purpose of this movie.

Synopsis

The action begins in 1979 as Iranian militants invade the U.S. embassy in Tehran, taking 52 of the 58 diplomats hostage. Six manage to escape, making their way to refuge at the home of Canadian Ambassador Ken Taylor (Victor Garber). In the U.S. the CIA hire Tony Mendez (Ben Affleck), an “exfiltration” expert to smuggle the six out of Iran. Creating false identities, he has them pose as a film crew scouting locations for a fake sci-fi flick called Argo.

- Richard: ●●●●●
- Mark: ●●●●●

MB: Well if the CIA did produce it, they did a great job. One of the more original and entertaining films of the year.

Comedy

Here Comes The Boom

Director. Frank Coraci

Stars. Kevin James, Salma Hayek

Here Comes the Boom may not bring the boom but it's not quite cinematic doom either. At the broad comedy's core is Kevin James playing earnest as a bored biology teacher engaging in mixed martial arts to raise funds for his financially-strapped school. As outrageous a premise as that is, it still sort of works due to some charming gags and bold brawl scenes. However, constant jabs of formulaic sentiment definitely keep the film from becoming a true champ.

STEVE GOW

Comedy

Seven Psychopaths

Director. Martin McDonagh

Stars. Colin Farrell, Sam Rockwell

It may not be as neatly-structured as his Oscar-nominated breakthrough comedy In Bruges but Martin McDonagh's Seven Psychopaths is certainly as entertaining. A bizarre riff on the art of screen-writing, the dog-napping caper features a struggling scribe (Colin Farrell) who finds inspiration in the shady characters that arise when his best bud nabs a mobster's mutt. While it's certainly a complex narrative that will lose many mainstream moviegoers, snappy dialogue and a fun cast make Psychopaths a big score.

STEVE GOW

Horror

Sinister

Director. Scott Derrickson

Stars. Ethan Hawke, Juliet Rylance, James Ransone

A true crime author (Ethan Hawke) is so convinced he's on to a new real-life mystery with the makings of a bestseller he relocates to a small town and a new house. He doesn't tell his wife or kids that the house is actually the scene of the crime he's investigating or about the disturbing home movies he finds in the attic. Sinister is a good old-fashioned spooky movie. It shies away from getting really down and dirty — most of the really grim stuff is left to our imaginations — but it builds tension well and will leave you unsettled.

Brandon Cronenberg's maiden feature is, on the surface, akin to the body horror bent of his famous father. But underneath it beats a very different, even more bleak heart. Caleb Landry-Jones plays Syd, a bootlegger of celebrity viruses whose clientele are addicted to injecting themselves with the diseases of the stars. Soon, Syd is involved in corporate skulduggery which leads to vomiting blood all over white walls. DP Karim Hussain's imagery is crisp and Cronenberg goes for icy satire tempered by lowbrow FX gags.

Stars. Richard Gere, Susan Sarandon

An audacious thriller by first-time filmmaker Nicholas Jarecki, Arbitrage explores a rich investment manager (Richard Gere) and his desperate attempt to hide his lover's homicide while trying to sell his failing company. Jarecki may force a complex examination of power and corruption using a slightly conventional narrative but it's certainly forgivable considering the great performances of Gere and the cast.

Rumours about his demise from shooting himself in the head on-stage, lighting himself on fire and dying in prison trumped recognition of talented American singer/songwriter Rodriguez. He made two albums that flopped stateside but were, unbeknownst to him, colossal hits in South Africa where he was more revered than the Rolling Stones or Elvis. This is strong stuff.

Audition with Spielberg? No big deal for Henry Thomas

Blu-ray release.

Actor who played Elliott reflects on life-changing role, 30 years after E.T. hit theatres

There was a lot of pressure resting on Henry Thomas's tiny shoulders when he was cast in E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial, since the potential success of the tear-jerking fantasy classic was in part pinned on the pre-teen's ability to form a believable bond with the titular alien.

But Thomas, who was 10 when the influential film was released, was fortunate — he was too young to realize how much the film's prospects might have hinged on his emotional performance.

"I felt the pressure just as a day to day thing — it was a lot of work — but I didn't delve past it, didn't start to build it up in my mind or anything," Thomas, now 41, said in a recent telephone interview.

"I didn't stress out over it. Because I was 10 (and) I was worried about other things.

"If I had to do it now? I'd probably be a nervous wreck."

Those were innocent days for Thomas, who recalls that even when he walked into the audition with director Steven Spielberg — now a three-time Oscar winner — he wasn't at all starstruck. Thomas was just another sci-fi obsessed child excited to meet the man who helped bring Star Wars and Raiders of the Lost Ark to the screen.

Thomas's crucial audition for the role of Elliott — a lonely boy in suburban California who befriends and protects a gentle alien that's stranded on Earth — has been immortalized on YouTube, though it's also one of the many special features bundled into the film's lavish new Blu-ray release, which hits stores Tuesday and includes a startlingly fastidious visual restoration.

During the audition, Thomas improvises with an offscreen line-reader portraying a government agent who wants to capture E.T. for study. Thomas, his lip quivering and eyes welling up with tears, shouts back: "You can't take him away, he's mine!"

As soon as the try-out ends, Spielberg waits just a matter of seconds to give Thomas the good news: "OK, kid, you got the job."

"That was great," says Thomas now. "If every audition was like that, it'd be perfect."

At the time of this interview, Thomas admitted he hadn't recently revisited the film — "I didn't do my homework," he cracked.

But it won't be long before he gives it another look.

"I'm planning on showing it to my oldest daughter, who's eight now," he said.

"It's pretty much right up her alley."

Matthew Fox. Playing a psychotic assassin requires commitment

Matthew Fox looking lean and mean in Alex Cross. HANDOUT

Matthew Fox underwent a startling physical transformation, dropping down to nearly zero per cent body fat to play the psychotic assassin Picasso in Alex Cross, so it's understandable that he's been getting a lot of diet and exercise questions. But we wanted to know about some other things — like why he isn't going back to TV anytime soon and how things are going with the reportedly troubled World War Z. On that last topic, in fact, he'd like to clear a few things up.

How tired are you of getting diet and exercise questions? (Laughs) Yeah. I fortunately braced myself for the fact that that was going to be one of the things that people were going to come with as far as questions. So I'm not too tired about it. It was a lot of hard work, man. I don't watch any playback or rushes or anything like that — I still haven't seen the movie. I think down the road I always hit a point where I'm like, "OK, now I can watch this." So I really hadn't seen myself and what I was setting out to accomplish with that guy until somebody sent me [a promotional photo]. Somebody forwarded it to me and I opened this email, and it's this image of myself in the cage thing where he's breaking the guy's arm. And I was like, "Whoa, dude, that is so intense and disturbing."

So where are you as far as watching your own stuff? What have you seen?

Well, I mean I've seen Speed Racer a couple of times. I watched the first half-season of the first year of Lost. And I've seen Vantage Point, I've seen We are Marshall. I haven't seen any of the three that are going to be coming out. I haven't seen Alex Cross or World War Z or Emperor.

I don't think anyone's seen World War Z yet.

Well, some people that I work with have seen it, and they think it's bad-ass. I think Paramount must be a little bit bummed by the rumour that's been blogged on movie sites that just doesn't have any basis in fact.

Edward Burns gets back to his Irish roots

What he knows best.

Star of Alex Cross talks about his work on a sequel to Brothers McMullan and how Tyler Perry gave him the idea to do it

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Edward Burns hit it big with his debut feature as a writer, director and star, the Brothers McMullan, in 1995. So what's he planning for the 20th anniversary? A sequel, of course. In fact, Burns tells Metro that none other than Tyler Perry — with whom he co-stars in Alex Cross — has encouraged him to get back to the Irish-American story lines that brought him success to begin with.

It's been nearly 20 years since the Brothers McMullan.

I can't believe it's coming up on 20 years. It's crazy. I'm actually working on the sequel for the 20th anniversary. And I did one that comes out in November called the Fitzgerald Family Christmas, which is seven adult siblings. All my friends from big Irish clans who have seen it are like, "Oh man, this one hits a little too close to home."

Why a Christmas movie?

It's funny. Tyler is the inspiration for the movie. He had just watched Brothers McMullan while we were working together and he was like, "Why didn't you ever make a sequel for that film?" So that's where that idea came from. And then he goes, "You know, those first two movies were so successful, and it's all about the Irish-Catholic families. Why haven't you written about that since?" And I really didn't have an explanation. He's like, "Take it from me. Super-serve your niche. I guarantee that all those folks that really connected to those first two movies, if you were to make another Irish-American-themed film, they're probably going to come out to check it out." I was like, "F—, you know what? He's absolutely right." So I sat down and I just started writing.

Celebs battle over best Bond

"He has all of what you expect from Bond. He was debonair, classy and yet had a twinkle in his eye and he's a handsome guy who can act."

GoldenEye actress Famke Janssen. Talking up her co-star in that movie Irish actor Pierce Brosnan.

Spy soundtrack. With Adele's Skyfall pleasing the ears of fans, we look at the other songs that made the secret agent saga famous

With the release of the latest Bond movie Skyfall and the film's impressive song of the same name by British songstress Adele, Metro looks at a long line of iconic tunes that helped make Bond the sophisticated, escapist's franchise that it is today.

Goldfinger by Shirley Bassey from Goldfinger

Classic film, classic voice: Bassey recorded three Bond themes, the only performer to do more than one.

Bond Theme/Kingston Calypso/Three Blind Mice by Monty Norman from Dr. No

The first, and, if not the best, it deserves credit for setting the tone for future Bonds, although the end of the YouTube clip for the song is just odd. Plus: funky title design!

Live and Let Die by Paul McCartney & Wings from Live and Let Die

Love it when the guitar breaks out. Or are we thinking of the Guns N' Roses cover?

Nobody Does it Better by Carly Simon from The Spy Who Loved Me

The title says it all.

A View to a Kill (Dance Into the Fire) by Duran Duran from A View to a Kill

A View to a Kill

For a certain generation, Roger Moore is James Bond, and this was his definitive '80s theme.

OHMSS Title Theme by John Barry Orchestra from On Her Majesty's Secret Service

Sampled by DJs even today, this classical hit is more fondly remembered than George whatshisname.

Diamonds are Forever by Shirley Bassey from Diamonds are Forever

Another Bassey smash, this for the last official film to star Sean Connery.

From Russia with Love (Instrumental) by John Barry from From Russia with Love

Another instrumental, and still glorious 50 years later.

The World is Not Enough by Garbage from The World is Not Enough

Not Enough

Kudos to the producers for taking a risk here, hiring an alt rock band with electronic, melancholy touches, to shake things up. It's Bond remixed.

You Only Live Twice by Nancy Sinatra from You Only Live Twice

A year after her hit These Boots Are Made for Walkin', Frank's daughter scored another hit.

Moonraker by Shirley Bassey from Moonraker

Bassey is still alive and performing Bond songs. Bring her back!

Thunderball by Tom Jones from Thunderball

Who better to sing a Bond song than a man who scores just as many ladies?

The Man with the Golden

Gun by Lulu from The Man with the Golden Gun

Lovely. But we prefer Lulu's To Sir, with Love

GoldenEye by Tina Turner from GoldenEye

She's an icon. This song, not so much.

Licence to Kill by Gladys Knight from Licence to Kill

The track sounds very 1989, but we're nostalgic for it. Unlike Sheena Easton's.

For Your Eyes Only by Sheena Easton from For Your Eyes Only

The '80s Brit sings this one right into the camera, and gives it her all. We remember it being played in dentists' offices everywhere.

All Time High by Rita Coolidge from Octopussy

The tune is passable but we dock points because she never says the word Octopussy.

The Living Daylights by A-Ha from The Living Daylights

Side note: A-Ha's video for Take on Me was better than this entire film.

Another Way to Die by Jack White & Alicia Keys from Quantum of Solace

Stuttering, rockabilly, and featuring a weird pair, this tune is at least bolder than the movie, one of the worst Bonds ever.

Tomorrow Never Dies by Sheryl Crow from Tomorrow Never Dies

There's no one less Bond than the woman behind elevator music like All I Wanna Do.

Die Another Day by Madonna from Die Another Day

Madonna + vocoder = a dated techno fail. This just misses last place because at least we remember it.

You Know My Name by Chris Cornell from Casino Royale

A revitalizing movie. With a theme song sung by a grunge-era relic.

METRO WORLD NEWS

"Timothy Dalton deserves more credit than he gets. He nails the dark and dangerous element, but unlike Daniel Craig (Connery's runner up in my book), Dalton also brings an elegance and humour to the role."

Star of Guys with Kids Jesse Bradford on the only Welsh man to ever play Bond.

Fantastically atmospheric music from the oddly-punctuated Montreal outfit. Allelujah! Don't Bend! Ascend! It's their first record in a decade.

Tori Amos and Kate Bush fans will appreciate Alison Sudol's whimsy. Her third album is called Pines.

Seeking music's unexperienced

New album. Dan Snaith, of Caribou fame, is releasing a electronica album with the hope of generating fresh inspiration

When Caribou's Dan Snaith first started frequenting dance clubs as a teenager in Toronto, he already couldn't resist the lure of the local DJ booth.

Any time a piece of visionary vinyl started spinning, he remembers being "that guy" peering over the DJ's shoulder, trying to catch a glimpse of the label.

"The most exciting moments in DJ sets for me, in the past, have all been: 'Oh my God, I can't believe this record exists. It's so good, what is it?'" said the London-based musician in a recent telephone interview.

In recent years — just as Snaith found himself exhausted by the rituals and clichés of traditional live pop music — he found himself returning to clubs, energized and inspired by the DJs whirling through London and those moments of dance floor discovery that are hard to come by anywhere else.

That's what inspired his latest disc, Jiaolong, which the electronic composer — who previously recorded as Manitoba — will release Tuesday under the moniker Daphni.

As opposed to his typically meticulous work with Caribou, Snaith breathed life into these nine tracks quickly, out of necessity — most of the compositions here had to be finished immediately as he worked to conjure new music for his set.

And given that he worked with an analog modular synthesizer — a notoriously fussy machine with which it can be difficult or even impossible to reproduce sounds created moments before — he didn't have the option of fiddling endlessly with his spontaneously crafted tunes.

"The whole point of this music is for it to sound like something unexpected and genuinely live and improvised is happening, so when I was DJing it in a club, people would get that feeling that like: 'What on earth is going to happen next? We don't know where this music's going,'" he said.

Yet fans who followed Caribou's progression from the bedroom psychedelia of

But while venturing into somewhat unfamiliar territory, Snaith was thankful for the ability to test his latest tunes quickly in front of discerning crowds.

"My most common experience is making a track that I'm really excited about and coming back the next day and listening to it and thinking that it's terrible. That has always happened to me — always," said Snaith, who has a PhD in mathematics from Imperial College London.

Behind Morrissey's curtain

Interview. Metro speaks to the British singer about his views on the Royals, his Latino fanbase, a Smiths reunion and his new autobiography

Metro World News

When the opportunity arises to interview a celebrity via email, we often balk at the invitation because there's really no way of knowing that the person who is supposedly answering is the person to whom you're really posing the questions.

But occasionally we'll make exceptions for an entertainer we feel is worth any inconvenience.

And so it was that the British singer Morrissey became part of this elite and mismatched club.

Earlier this month, rumours emerged online that The Smiths, known for their less than amicable split, were reuniting.

He quickly quashed those rumours and was eager to discuss his upcoming autobiography, which his publisher, Penguin Books, is already calling "a classic in the making."

Did you find fulfillment in writing your autobiography? Was there a particular period of time in your life that you exorcised that gave you more relief to

Two more for the road

A few more questions

- Do you address the beginning of your career in a way that fans might finally stop asking you when The Smiths will get back together? If people continue to ask that question now, which they do, then they shall never stop, and they shall never stop because they don't understand the history of the band. Asking about a Smiths reformation is no different to driving into fog.

- How important was it to you to let your feelings be known about the Royal Family during the Olympics? I don't view it as criticism but as intelligent observation. The so-called Royals are a dictatorship.

revisit than others?

The terror is equally balanced throughout all periods. It's a bit like locking yourself away in a dark room and hoping to God something useful develops.

Were there portions that you found yourself skipping over because you felt like you adequately addressed them in song already?

No, because anything worth saying bears repeating.

Was dealing with a long format a luxury or a chore?

At times I felt ready to be carried off, and you can certainly overdose on yourself. But even on off-days I'd find some petrol (gas) in the tank.

You've always been known for writing such great quotable couplets, which ended up in countless yearbooks over the years. Can you share either the first or last sentence of the book with our readers?

Under no circumstances.

Speaking of songwriting lines, is there a line from one of your songs for which you hope you will be best remembered?

Fortunately, there are many. When you've recorded songs such as Life is a Pigsty and The World is Full of Crashing Bores, it can't be denied that you at least have something to say. ... Although Rolling Stone magazine has done a great job of ousting me off the human map.

Further on that topic of being remembered, you've dealt with the subject of death in your songs quite extensively. Do you have your epitaph picked out already?

Chaucer's "mother dear, let me in." That would suit, I think.

On the opposite end of the spectrum, what makes you laugh these days?

My naked self. Thankfully it's not something I see often. I tend to look away.

About 10 years ago, Chuck Klosterman wrote an article for Spin where he drew attention to your Latino fanbase, which had previously been unknown to many readers. When did you first become aware that this segment of the population was getting so much out of your music?

When I first toured the U.S. as a solo entity, I noticed that 70 per cent of the audience was Latino. Many were, and are, serious gang tribes out for blood, which, of course, is lovely and quite handy given the circumstances of my life. It was persistently written in England that the only people who could possibly like Morrissey were those who made their own bread. This was never true.

You're playing with the Stooges on a few of these dates. Out of respect for Iggy, will you be keeping your shirt on? The shirtless thing is interesting because both of you guys do it so differently. What is it all about for you?

I'm the before to Iggy's after. My body is nothing to look at, but it's mine and we get on quite well.

You've said that you wouldn't perform past the age of 55. Is this still your cut-off?

I doubt I'll make it to 55. The British Royals will turn the tanks on me way before then.

Pattinson seen with mystery girl on night out

Despite reports of a reconciliation between Robert Pattinson and Kristen Stewart, the British Twilight star was recently enjoying the company of another woman, according to the Daily Mail. Pattinson and some pals hit up a New York City nightclub earlier this week, though the actor spent most of the night getting cosy with a mystery blonde. "He had his arm around (the girl) at one point, and they chatted for most of the night," a source says. "They looked like they were having a great time, and the girl was making him laugh a lot."

Grey's star McKidd reflects on how far he has come

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

"I can't believe I had to come all the way to New York to get a glass of Macallan," proclaimed actor Kevin McKidd's extremely Scottish father Neil on Wednesday night. He was sipping the scotch whisky at a party celebrating a new creative campaign between his son, photographer Annie Leibovitz and Macallan.

It was a good crack by the elder McKidd. He and his wife, Kathleen, raised Kevin in Elgin, which is just a few miles away from the Macallan distillery, where the actor worked as a teenager. "I was literally the guy who swept up all the crap and did all the crap jobs," recounted Kevin, who is probably most famous for portraying Dr. Owen Hunt (a.k.a. McRugged) on Grey's Anatomy. "I was the hired hand holding all the rub-bish."

And now he's being photographed by Leibovitz for the Macallan Masters of Photography campaign, which is comprised of 1,000 limited edition bottles featuring various portraits of McKidd. "It's extremely surreal," he said.

Angry Bieber takes to Twitter as 'personal' footage, items are stolen

Justin Bieber had his computer and camera stolen from backstage during a tour stop in Washington state this week, he announced on Twitter. "Yesterday during the show me and my tour manager Josh had some stuff stolen. Really sucks. People should respect other's property," he posted. "I had a lot of personal footage on that computer and camera and that is what bothers me the most." It's unclear just how "personal" that footage is, but so far there have been no reports of anyone looking to sell anything compromising from Bieber's collection.

CRUNCH TIME!

By Steven Sarens

People often assume that our busiest time of the year is the spring. While this may be true (especially after the spring Home Show) the fall is probably not far behind both for sales and installations. While installations are hectic in the spring (as we have so many jobs prebooked) we never really slow down through summer and at this time of year it becomes a race against time. While we can usually install until the end of October anything after that we consider a bonus. Once it gets too cold or wet it makes doing a proper job tough. So when people ask me if we're winding down it's actually the opposite - we are going full tilt ahead.

As far as sales, we always have a rush in the fall as people who have had designs and estimates done throughout the summer often decide - why wait another year? Some people think it's not worth getting a room now - with the cold weather coming how much use will they get from a three season room? For the people that have ever had a sunroom, they know that while everyone else is cleaning off their decks and storing things away for the winter anyone with a three season sunroom is still enjoying the outdoors and will for quite some time. While I tell our customers they will use their room to about minus ten or fifteen degrees, they will tell me that they were in their sunroom when it was much colder than that.

One of the biggest joys in getting a room now is not the use you get now but how much you'll enjoy it in the spring after being cooped up all winter and using your deck comfortably when there is still snow on the ground! All you need is the proper design and a little sun.

If you would like more information about sunrooms call 204-940-3030 for a free in home estimate or visit our display and take a tour of our factory at 265 Sutherland Ave.

Liquid Assets

Wine your way right into autumn

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

As my summer worshipping friends shed a tear for the recent passing of the seasonal torch, I'm reveling in fall. I mean, what's not to love about autumn? There's the incredible colours, me rocking my jacket collection on cool, crisp afternoons, Halloween and, of course, a chance to match rustic wines with the harvested bounty — thanks to my local food growers.

While I hate liquid pigeonholing, once in a while you have to look deep into your glass and admit that some wines just seem to taste better at certain times of the year.

A textbook example are the reds from Italy's Chianti region in Tuscany.

The sangiovese grape calls the area home and its combination of bright violet aromatics and ripe plum/cherry fruit flavours has an earthy charm that speaks volumes to the essence of fall.

The Ruffino Chianti DOCG ($14.95 - $17.99) is a straightforward version that's been a mainstay of Italian restos since the 1970s. The current 2011 edition is soft and supple with a plump, dark berry personality that makes a perfect partner to light stews, roasted poultry, tomato-based pasta sauces and, of course, pizza.

PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Anything Taco

Tacos are huge! Fish tacos, bison tacos, Mexican seasonings or more fusion esoteric flavours abound. If it is wrapped in a corn or wheat tortilla, it is cool. If it has slaw or pickles, it is over the moon, super cool. The newest versions have soft corn tacos rather than the envelope ones that your mom made, which leaked and cracked and drizzled meat juice all down your arm. Nowadays, you really ought to eat this art with a fork.

Dolce De Leche

Literally "sweet milk," this Portuguese simmered and caramelized milk has taken over menus. Its creamy, smooth, uber sweetness graces everything from chocolate cake to churros these days — and with good reason.

Grilled Cheese

Any way you slice it, the classic standby has become a shining example of gourmet. Mixing cheeses with condiments, meats with pickles, thick breads and thin is very au courant. And if you can get your grilled cheese from a food truck, well, aren't you the cat's meow?

Food Trucks

Most major cities are jumping on the bandwagon and figuring out zoning to allow these restaurants on wheels to work their magic. Nimble small business chefs are cooking up a storm of everything but burgers and fries. Deep fryers aren't standard equipment anymore but creativity and a "fresh is best" attitude are.

Ethnic Condiments

The more authentic the condiment, the better! You've never had such fun mixing Indian Raita with spicy Mexican food or garlicky chimichurri with sheep's milk brie on baguette. Chutneys of all shapes and flavours as well as harissa and other flavourful pastes make a meal sing.

Eggs

They are back as a humble fried ingredient. Duck, chicken, quail, vitamin D fortified, it doesn't matter. Their simple beauty has always been the bailiwick of chefs. It's what they cook for themselves on a day off or whip up after a late shift. But the egg's honesty may have seemed too understated for their menus. Now it's just what's needed — earnest, solid food.

Cupcakes

These wee treaties are not going away. A cake is too much of a commitment but a cupcake can cheer you up in a few bites and not leave eight more pieces in the kitchen to call your name. Apples, baked, caramelized or stewed are also making a comeback and if you find a cupcake containing those flavours, buy it!

Artisan Cheese

Isn't it a dream that every foodie has? To milk a goat, figure out how to make that milk into delicious cheese and enjoy it for the year? Luckily, enough folks have ditched the city slicker life for a farm to do just that in enough quantities to share. If you can milk it, artisans are making cheese from it in small delicious batches.

Grilled Cheese Upgrade. Put your knowledge of trends to good use

This recipe combines two of the fall food trends — grilled cheese and chutney, which is an ethnic condiment.

1. Preheat a cast iron skillet to medium-high and butter one side of each piece of bread.

2. Place two slices face down into skillet, top with cheese and a dollop of chutney, cover with second slice, butter side out.

3. Flip once and allow cheese to melt.

Big Daddy Tazz

No, I'm not talking about mosquito hunter Taz Stuart — rather, Winnipeg's own home-grown comedian. Saturday night, the place to be is at the Pantages Playhouse. Why? Well Big Daddy Tazz, along with emcee Ace Burpee, comedian Sean Cullen and musician Johnny Bagpipes Johnston will be there to make you laugh. Stand up Against Stigma, will include a rainbow auction raising money for the Canadian Mental Health Association, so bring your wallet. Laughs start at 7:30 p.m.

Zombie Walk 2012

Looking to dress up like a zombie and parade through downtown Saturday night? If so, keep reading! I know there are many people who've been waiting all year to put their blood drenched, ripped-up zombie costume on. This year, zombies are asked to bring food for Winnipeg Harvest, or make a donation in exchange for a photo of yourself or of your favourite zombie — if they don't eat you first. Meeting time is 6:30 p.m. at The Forks. After the walk, the party's at Ozzy's in Osborne Village. Go to winipegzombies.com for details.

The Princess and the Goblin

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet kicks off their fall season with Twyla Tharp's imaginative story of a town where young children are being kidnapped by goblins living in mines below. The story follows a courageous little girl who is determined to free the kidnapped children with much needed help from her great-great grandmother. This fairytale by Victorian novelist George MacDonald is one the whole family is sure to love. The ballet runs Oct. 17 to 21 at the Centennial Concert Hall, and yes, the WSO will be there as well.

Bottom's Up Wine Lovers!

This year is the 21st anniversary of the International Wine Festival of Manitoba. I love wine and everything that goes along with it —relaxing music, great company and amazing food. Not only will you get all of those things here, there are more than 250 fantastic bottles to choose from. The festival runs Friday to Sunday. Wine tastings will be held at the Forks Market's centre court 5 to 9 p.m. on Friday and from noon to 6:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. After a few glasses, may I suggest moving on to Sydney's —a fabulous restaurant on the second floor of the Forks.

Send 'em to Sukhothai

Sukhothai in the heart of Osborne Village serves up the real deal. Stuffed from several turkey dinners, my fiancé and I stopped by recently and the vast menu met all of our requests. To start, we had the crab and cream cheese wontons, Kealu Krob Pouh Ath. Then we moved over to the curries, stir fries and my favourite of the night — Chu Chee Pra. This family owned and operated restaurant takes pride in their establishment, something you can sense the minute you walk in the door. To make a reservation call 204-633-6907.

Bieber fever is back!

If you were successful in scoring tickets for your tweens, congrats, tickets for this show across North America sold out in mere minutes. I was at a party years ago when someone showed me a video of the Biebs — before he was anyone — and I remember saying, "That kid has it!" Sure enough, talent manager Scooter Braun saw his YouTube video too, and Bieber Fever was born. Bieber plays in Winnipeg Oct. 18 for those lucky enough to have tickets.

Sidney sees solution ahead

NHL. Penguins superstar believes lockout won't erase entire season

Sidney Crosby can't even get through a conversation with his grandmother without the topic being raised.

A phone call back to Nova Scotia over Thanksgiving weekend inevitably veered towards the status of the NHL's collective bargaining talks and included the $3-billion question being asked throughout the hockey world: When will the season start?

"It's all anybody wants to talk about," Crosby said Thursday.

That includes the Penguins captain, who fielded questions from reporters at a practice facility in the suburbs of Pittsburgh. It was a morning he should have been preparing for the season opener — Friday's game against the Islanders was cancelled by the lockout — but instead found himself going through drills with a handful of teammates.

They are the optimistic few who are staying in town with hopes that a settlement will soon be reached and training camp can open. At this point, Crosby isn't even willing to

Wishful thinking

The progress Crosby is hoping for didn't happen this week during two days of meetings between the league and NHLPA in New York.

- The sides broke off talks Thursday afternoon and reported no progress in their ongoing stalemate.

entertain the notion that the work stoppage could threaten the entire season.

"I can't see it getting to that point, I really can't," he told The Canadian Press. "If anything, my thoughts are more just about whether the NHL has a date in mind (for the season to start) and just when they're actually going to start negotiating."

Much of Crosby's optimism is rooted in the growth he's seen since entering the NHL. He was skating in the QMJHL during the 2004-05 lockout and helped propel the sport to new heights when the "new" NHL returned the following season.

"There's a lot of momentum," said Crosby. "I just really hope that the (owners) aren't taking that for granted."

Back on the sidelines

Another season cut short

The timing of the current lockout is particularly tough for Crosby, who was limited to just 63 regular-season games the last two seasons because of concussion symptoms.

He's now feeling better than ever — "I've come a long way" — but believes all of the time he spent on the sidelines recently has helped him stay patient during negotiations.

Crosby certainly looked as though he hadn't missed a beat while being put through skating and stickhandling drills by a skills instructor on Thursday.

Crosby said he would consider playing overseas eventually, but likely only if the entire NHL season is cancelled.

"I don't have a date in mind," said Crosby.

Pierce still not ready to go for Bombers

The Bombers hope Joey Elliott can reproduce his performance from last week when they host the Stampeders on Saturday. GRAHAM HUGHES/THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers will open their final four-game push for post-season life without quarterback Buck Pierce.

Coach Tim Burke said Thursday the doctors decided Pierce was still not fit to return to the field after he received a concussion in a game against the Toronto Argonauts on Sept. 29.

Burke said he has no firm idea when Pierce might get the nod.

"I don't. I'm hoping he will, soon," said the interim head coach, who will go with backup Joey Elliott when the Calgary Stampeders visit Saturday.

The Bombers (4-10) lost 44-3 to the Stampeders (8-6) when they met last month.

But Elliott now has two wins under his belt this season subbing for Pierce, including Monday's 27-22 upset in Montreal. He also posted an earlier victory over the Ticats, when Pierce was out with an injured foot from July to September.

Burke is impressed with the young quarterback's growth and the way he led the offence Monday in Montreal.

"He really did a great job making decisions and I think he's learned to let plays develop and not just chuck the ball down real quick," he said.

"And he was in command of the game. I thought he managed the game really well. That tells you he's not just concentrating on what he has to do, he's concentrating on what the offence has to do." THE CANADIAN PRESS

MLB. Walk-off homer Werth the wait for Nats

The Washington Nationals signed Jayson Werth to show them how to win. His game-ending homer Thursday night extended their surprising season.

Werth led off the bottom of the ninth inning by driving Lance Lynn's 13th pitch into the left-field stands to give the Nationals a 2-1 victory over the defending World Series champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Woods defeats McIlroy in Turkey

Tiger Woods beat Rory McIlroy by six strokes Thursday to advance to the semifinals of the World Golf Final, turning the first head-to-head match between the world's top-two players into a one-sided contest.

McIlroy, the world's top-ranked player, was eliminated from the $5.2-million US exhibition after losing his third consecutive group match.

"It felt good and I really hit it good out there," said Woods.

Doping. Armstrong tries to carry on after report

Lance Armstrong tried to treat it like any other day.

The world-renowned cyclist was at the office of his cancer-fighting foundation, "talking about next week's events and plans for 2013," he said on Twitter.

But Thursday was different. It was the day after the evidence came out — a voluminous report from the U.S. Anti-Doping Agency that painted him as a drug-using bully at the centre of what the group called the biggest doping conspiracy ever concocted in sports.

The fallout from the agency's version of events, and its raft of supporting documents, started coming down in small bites from friends, foes, supporters and detractors around the globe.

INTRODUCING DANGER ZONE

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

What you decide to focus on today and over the weekend depends on trust. Specifically, do you trust partners and colleagues enough to take their advice seriously? That's something only you can decide.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

The planets indicate that the more you push yourself now, the more you will achieve. The approaching new moon will boost your vitality and make it easier to get things done — both at home and at work.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You won't lack for confidence over the next 24 hours. Even if you are one of those rare Geminis who is cautious by nature, you will take risks left, right and centre. Don't aim for perfection, aim to have fun.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You want the chance to prove yourself to the world and you will get it over the next few days. But don't push yourself so hard that you risk some sort of injury. Everyone has limits — even a Cancerian.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

It seems you have something on your mind, something you feel needs to be said, and if others don't like it that's just too bad. You can be quite harsh when the mood takes you — and it's taking you now.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You need to adopt a more adventurous approach, especially where your personal life is concerned. Most of all, you need to get over your fear of rejection. The person you most need to love is yourself.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

There is a new moon in your birth sign on Monday. Between now and then, you should give some thought to what kind of new start you want to make. Don't limit your horizons: Think big and act big too.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

It's good to be tolerant, to accept that different people see things in different ways, but that does not mean you have to change your own ways. You are who you are for a reason — a good reason, too.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You are in one of those moods where you have very little patience with people who drag their feet or get in your way. Be warned though that if you are too abrasive, you could make a serious enemy — or several.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You may be worried that you won't make it to the top of whatever level it is you aspire to, but you will. Your greatest trait is not your ambition, but your staying power. You refuse to give up.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You've had your fill of certain people and intend to get away from them as soon as possible. Good for you. A change of scene will do you a world of good today. Stretch it to several days if you can.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

The approaching new moon will help you sort out your money situation but you've got to accept it will take time. If you act in haste today, you may regret it come Monday when other options reveal themselves. SALLY BROMPTON
